BULLETIN

Letter from the Editor

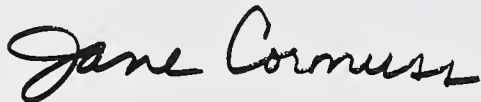

Dear Readers:

It is indeed an honor and a pleasure to serve as guest editor of this Spring/Summer 1988 issue of the Lasell Bulletin. Since my days as a shy freshman in 1978, the college has offered me a myriad of opportunities—not to mention support and encouragement—for personal and professional growth.

This tradition of providing a supportive and challenging environment has been a hallmark of the Lasell experience since the institution's founding in 1851. Indeed, Lasell is a unique blend of the old and the new, of tradition and innovation. Plans to establish a state-of-the-art business resource center demonstrate the college's commitment to preserving its valued educational mission. An innovative approach to critical thinking, as part of the college's core curriculum, draws on Lasell's heritage of offering a well-rounded and relevant education.

This unique blend of tradition and innovation represents Lasell at its best. It is what makes Lasell extraordinarily beloved by her alumnae and members of the college community.

Sincerely,

Jane W. Cormuss '80

A Window of Opportunity

The Center for Management and Entrepreneurial Studies

A NEW VENTURE IN EDUCATION at Lasell will provide the college with a state-of-the-art business resource center in 1989. Plans to establish the Center for Management and Entrepreneurial Studies reflect planning, steady growth, and potential in the area of business studies.

The center will reaffirm Lasell's historical mission of offering the practical arts while also utilizing a college landmark. "The Barn," located adjacent to the campus athletic field, will be renovated and expanded to house a fully equipped case study hall, seminar rooms, classrooms, faculty offices, and support facilities. Seven programs of study will use the center as their base: Accounting, Business Management, Fashion Merchandising, Hotel Management, Retail Management, Travel and Tourism Management, and Office Management.

Three factors influenced the decision to establish the center, says President Peter T. Mitchell. First, the success of the Campaign for Lasell in raising funds to restore and renovate campus buildings heightened community awareness of the college's commitment to utilizing its physical plant and existing facilities.

Second, an in-depth strategic planning process set in motion in November 1987 and completed in January 1988 identified specific areas of potential for growth at Lasell in its business programs. The Strategic Planning Committee determined that a center devoted to management and entrepreneurial studies "would not only strengthen existing programs, but would enable the college to develop the exceptional career potential present in the management field," says Richard S. Holway, Lasell trustee and member of the committee.

A third factor was the increasing number of students who seek a business education at Lasell. Sarah Scavone, assistant director of the Fashion Merchandising Program, notes there is a clear need for additional support facilities. "Business programs at Lasell are expanding and right now, the Fashion Merchandising Program is the largest program in the business field at Lasell. The center will undoubtedly offer us opportunities for growth."

New Era of Business Leaders

President Mitchell envisions the center will lead Lasell into a new era of women as business leaders. "Certainly Lasell's decision to establish the Center for Management and Entrepreneurial Studies reflects cultural and social change in women's roles and, as such, remains faithful to the college's mission," he says.

The Plan

As noted, the Barn will be renovated and expanded as part of the project to create a state-of-the-art business center. The renovations will reflect the focus of the center: the case study method of teaching business. The first floor will contain the case study hall, which will cover two floors in its entirety and serve as a focus of the building's function; a travel seminar room with maps and globes; and a classroom. The second floor will provide additional seating for the case study hall; two classrooms; one fashion merchandising laboratory with display windows facing the campus athletic field; and two small seminar rooms. The third and top floor will house offices for faculty and the division chairman.

Impact on the Business Community

President Mitchell foresees the creation of the Center Associates, a group of local business people who will look to the college as a resource for marketing strategies and management techniques. He remarks, "The idea is to develop a cadre of business leaders and to involve them in a relationship with the center that benefits both Lasell and the local business community." An annual dinner for the Center Associates is planned as part of this community involvement, adds Dr. Mitchell.

The Future

The Center for Management and Entrepreneurial Studies will serve as a magnet for students, faculty, and area business leaders. In addition, the center is expected to support and encourage, through the case study approach, a level of instruction that reflects Lasell's tradition of offering a relevant learning experience in a challenging environment.

Looking to the future of women in business and to Lasell's role in women's education, President Mitchell concludes, "The Center for Management and Entrepreneurial Studies will enhance Lasell's reputation in preparing women for positions of leadership in the profit and nonprofit sectors." Indeed, the center is destined to serve the college and her students as a window of opportunity.

AN ALUMNA'S INTEREST AND loyal support following the successful Campaign for Lasell encouraged President Mitchell to pursue this ambitious project, he says. Ruth Rawlings Mott '21 of Flint, Michigan, offered a $100,000 challenge grant in December 1987.

Overall, the cost of the project is estimated at $600,000 by its completion in early 1989; $550,000 was raised by March of this year toward construction costs.

Moral Reasoning

In search of the good life

COLLEGES AND UNIVERSITIES across the country in recent years have been addressing the need to provide students with the skills and knowledge necessary for modern life. Today, at Lasell, students are learning to think critically as part of a core curriculum that was introduced in the fall of 1987.

Essentially, the concept of core curriculum is based on the belief that there are fundamental elements of knowledge that constitute a well-rounded education. Lasell's core curriculum consists of the following components: specific courses such as Writing I & II; Practical Computer Applications I & II; Lifestyles; Moral Reasoning; and Mathematics Competency, as well as "integrative" components that include Critical Reasoning; Writing Across the Curriculum; Oral Communications; Aesthetics; Library Skills; and Balanced Curriculum.

The Moral Reasoning component is based on a series of lectures and group discussions in which students and faculty explore ethical theories and then apply their understanding to specific case studies.

Professor Joseph Aieta serves as coordinator of the course and leads a discussion group. In addition, Director of Core Curriculum EdnaMay Duffy, Dean of Students Mary Dunn, Assistant Professor Sylvia MacPhee, and Lasell President Peter T. Mitchell lead discussion groups. Each discussion group consists of 15 to 20 students. All second-year students are required to take the course. Lectures are held four times during a semester and discussion groups meet once a week for 50 minutes.

The Good Life

What constitutes the good life? Professor Aieta says that a course such as Moral Reasoning assists students in thinking critically about complex issues. "This course is meant to combat a general amoral attitude that seems to be prevalent in American society today," he explains. "Many people cannot distinguish for themselves what constitutes the good life. Many people don't seem to care. Our aim is to familiarize students with the basic elements of moral reasoning."

As an introduction to moral reasoning, Lasell students are asked to consider the following theories:

Utilitarianism.

Emphasizing the consequences of one's actions, the greatest good for the greatest number, and the notions of right and wrong. John Stuart Mill's thoughts are presented as an example.

Life of Rational Thought.

Based on intent, the idea of reason as the highest good (Aristotle), and duty based on reason (Immanuel Kant).

Situational Ethics.

Particular situations determine the ethical response; no hard and fast rules to follow. The views of Joseph Fletcher are explored in this context.

Ethics of Caring.

Feminist response based on the morality of responsibility and the obligation to help others and to prevent harm. The positions of Carol Gilligan and Nel Noddings are presented and discussed.

What Ethics Is Not

The purpose of considering these theories, according to Professor Aieta, is to "get at what ethics is not. Ethics is not emotion. Ethics is not an appeal to authority. Ethics is not religion. Ethics is not right or wrong per se." Students are encouraged to view ethics as applicable to everyday situations—not as a set of preconceived notions that govern behavior, but as a process of ethical and moral reasoning.

Group discussions, in fact, call on students to apply their knowledge and understanding of ethical theories to actual case studies. Topics for consideration and discussion include: business ethics (hiring practices, employer/employee rights and obligations); advertising; governmental practices (political campaigns, lobby interests, the rights and obligations of citizenship); abortion; euthanasia (quality/prolongation of life); bio-engineering; medical ethics (patient confidentiality, informed consent); lying (breaking faith with others and oneself); cheating, stealing; and whistle-blowing.

In addition, students are required to write in class (as part of the Writing Across the Curriculum component) and to produce a paper demonstrating a basic understanding of their studies.

Informed Decision Making

Ultimately, critical thinking and moral reasoning are tools that will serve Lasell students in daily life, says Professor Aieta. He concludes, "In training our students to think for themselves and to make informed decisions, we are helping them to distinguish between what is acceptable and unacceptable in their lives, both now and for the future."

ALUMNAE SECRETARY APPOINTED

Jeanne A. Johnsen '72 has been appointed to serve her alma mater as alumnae secretary. She has been associated with Lasell since her graduation in 1972, most recently as assistant to the director of development in the Office of External Affairs.

In her new capacity as alumnae secretary, Ms. Johnsen will serve as support staff in assisting the Alumnae Association and various alumnae clubs with their volunteer activities. She will also provide administrative assistance in maintaining records for the Annual Fund. The reintroduction of alumnae secretary as a position is part of a reorganization of the External Affairs function.

In announcing Ms. Johnsen's appointment, President Peter T. Mitchell remarked, "Maintaining a vibrant and expanding service to Lasell alumnae will provide for a proud and strong Lasell. Alumnae relations remains an integral part of the Lasell experience."

Alumnae Association President Kathy Morgan Lucey '67 adds, "We welcome the opportunity to work with such a capable and loyal alumna as Jeanne Johnsen, and believe that the future of our organization will be greatly enhanced as a result."

Ms. Johnsen is a 1987 recipient of the prestigious Lasell Medallion, an award based on having "brought added distinction to the name Lasell." She is a resident of Natick, Massachusetts.

REACHING OUT

This year's Reunion Phonathon, held in March, raised $5,582—an increase of $2,475 over last year's figure. Alumnae volunteers, students, and college staff gathered in the Edwards Student Center to contact alumnae from this year's Reunion classes. All funds raised during this annual event benefit Lasell's Annual Fund and will be applied toward individual class gifts.

The College wishes to thank Phonathon cochairwomen Carol Bradley Sullivan '64 and Lynn Blodgett Williamson '46 for their efforts on behalf of Lasell, and extends a special thank you to the alumnae volunteers and students who participated in this year's successful event.

MEMENTOS

If you have any mementos from your days at Lasell that you no longer care to store in your attic, please know that the Memorabilia Committee at Lasell not only welcomes, but is eager to receive any and all items you are willing to contribute.

If you're heading for Reunion, bring them to campus with you. Otherwise, please send items to Lasell Memorabilia Collection, c/o Professor George Lane, Brennan Library, Lasell Junior College, Newton, MA 02166.

CONNECTICUT VALLEY NEWS

The 81st annual Connecticut Valley Club luncheon was held on November 7, 1987, at the Manchester Country Club. Honored guests included John McDonagh and Lori Buzzell from Lasell and alumna Ruth Adt Stephenson '14, Hamden CT, who was able to attend thanks to Dorothy Page Kuehl '48 and her daughter Nancy Kuehl Mayo '71. Recent graduates in attendance were Kristina Hokanson '83 and Kari Sullivan Pellegrino '84.

NEW ALUMNAE DIRECTORY SURVEY

All Lasell alumnae with current addresses on file in the Alumnae Office at Lasell will soon receive an Alumnae Directory Questionnaire by mail from the Bernard C. Harris Publishing Company, Inc., of White Plains, New York. The questionnaire will offer alumnae the opportunity to be listed in a new edition of the Lasell Junior College Alumnae Directory.

Please be certain to complete and return your directory questionnaire to Harris Publishing as soon as possible. Once received, your information will be edited and processed by the publisher. Over 11,000 Lasell graduates will be included in this new directory.

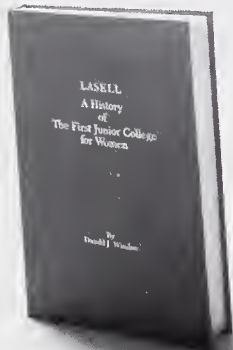

NOTE: If you don't return your questionnaire, there is the possibility that you might be inadvertently omitted, so please don't delay in returning the form directly to Harris Publishing.

"Dorothy BALCH McCormack, Marshalltown IA, had plans to be in San Diego CA during February to be with daughter and husband. Christmas family reunion in Marshalltown.

"Ruth HAYDEN, New Castle NH, was looking forward to Florida in January for three months. She is fine, except for poor vision and has sold her car. A friend now lives with her, so she still has transportation.

"Doris CAMPBELL Jeschke, Longboat Key FL, sent a pretty card and best wishes.

"Dorothy BURNHAM Eaton, Orlando FL, is enjoying Donald J. Winslow's book, Lasell: A History of the First Junior College for Women. Her 1987 book of poetry is entitled Pilgrim's Letter Home.

"Doris ROGERS Williams, Miami Shores FL, is still driving, playing duplicate bridge and was planning to go on a bridge cruise in April.

"Freda GRIFFIN Leining, Bloomfield CT, is in good spirits and keeping well, likewise her Lasell sisters, Marion and Carol."

Lillian adds, "Christmas night I telephoned the following classmates: Doris CRAWFORD Clovis, Vienna WV, who had eye surgery on one eye and hoped to have the other one done in May, in good spirits; Eloise CAREY Wadley, Saginaw MI, who was not feeling well but talked a few minutes; Marion EATON Gumaer, Rochester NY, whose voice sounded cheerful as always in spite of her vision problem; Mary Louise HERBERT Shute '63 to inquire about her mother, Louise FURBUSH Herbert, who is still in a nursing home in Watertown MA; Peg PERLEY Downey, Northbrook IL, who is now troubled with Parkinson's disease but sounded in good spirits; and Peg STEWART Bartlett, Eastham MA, who had just broken her hip—just as she was ready to come home from breaking another one—husband Craig carrying on courageously.

"There are still 20 'Little White Doves' out of our 57. Best wishes to Helen BALCOM Roberts, Albion NY, who is in a nursing home.

"I am saddened to report that we have lost two of our classmates, Bernice LYON Herrmann in December 1987 and Florence KUHN Meyers in February 1987.

"Lillian, herself. . . I am thankful to be able to report I am keeping well, and I sent a letter to each of you at Christmas so you know I am keeping out of mischief by my activities. Love to you all."
